Ordering Information

Please review the following tips for ordering your course materials:

1. Do not purchase your textbooks until your enrollment is approved. During the processing period, a new section may be opened that could require a different textbook or edition.
2. Always order by the ISBN. Publishers and vendors often offer the same textbook title under different ISBNs. You must have the correct ISBN to access your online website.

3. If you are having problems locating a textbook, contact us at Answers@outreach.lsu.edu for assistance.

Other Materials and Resources

Software: Microsoft Word, Web Browser, Adobe Flash Player, Adobe Shockwave Player, Adobe Acrobat Reader

It is recommended that you use Mozilla Firefox or Google Chrome as your web browser. Internet Explorer is not compatible with your Moodle course site.

Adobe Flash and Adobe Shockwave player are required for online testing. Adobe Acrobat Reader is required to view PDF document files.

Hardware: Web cam with a microphone (built-in or external), headphones or working speakers, and high speed internet

Proctored exams are completed online and require the hardware listed above. Students are encouraged to review the technical requirements provided on the ProctorU website and to perform a test on their equipment prior to enrolling in this course to make sure they have the necessary resources available. There is a separate charge for each proctored exam.

Nature and Purpose of the Course

Course Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students are expected to be able to:

1. Identify and discuss the philosophic ideas and concepts that serve as the foundations of the study of the history of political thought.
2. Explain the basic approaches and beliefs of the various philosophers who formed the Western tradition of political thought.
3. Identify the problems that are addressed by the great thinkers of the tradition of political philosophy and how they connect across time and place.

Syllabus

This course provides an introduction to some of the basic problems of political life as examined in the great works of political philosophy. In particular, we will draw our focus to the problem which began the entire project of political philosophy over 2000 years ago, the relationship of the philosopher and the city. If humanity's highest goal is to discover truth, what happens when the questions we ask and the truths we discover endanger the very fabric that holds society together? In the attempt to distill the tensions found in this relationship, we will read primary texts written by the great thinkers of antiquity and modernity in hopes of understanding them as they understood themselves.

This is a general education course and as such students will demonstrate an understanding of the informing factors of global interdependence, including economic forces, political dynamics, and cultural and linguistic difference and demonstrate an understanding of historical, cultural, and philosophical complexity which supports sophisticated discourse.

Working with the Course Materials

Remember, this course covers an entire semester of work or the equivalent of a classroom course lasting 15 weeks. That means that each module in this course equals nearly a week of course work and will require the same time and effort on your part. Do not expect to complete each module in a single study session. Understand, too, that if you choose to submit assignments at a very high pace, your instructor may not be able to grade your work at the same rate.

Each module contains information, activities, and assignments organized under a consistent series of headings. Get familiar with how the module is organized. Each module in this course is organized into the following sections: the Module Learning Objectives, the Reading Assignments, Lecture Notes for each Module, Thought Questions within the Lecture Notes, and the graded Module Assignment. You should work through these parts of the module in order. Specific recommendations are provided in a link to the course module instructions, which you should review before beginning the first module.

This course does not have a conventional textbook. Instead, your readings will consist of a number of smaller texts published throughout the history of political theory. Any readings which do not come from the required books will be provided for you electronically within each module. In order to help facilitate your understanding of these readings, a set of informal lecture-style notes will be provided for you in each module as well. Please do not assume that these lectures will be sufficient for your understanding of the course and the material. They are meant not as a primary vehicle for learning, but instead as a way to help explain and contextualize what else you have been assigned to read.

Finally, some modules will contain a few visual aids to help demonstrate points from the readings/lecture. These will be referenced by name in the lecture for any module where they may be found and will be available on the Moodle page with the rest of the module materials.

Suggested Study Techniques

1. Carefully review the module objectives to help you focus on the information that will be covered on the exams.
2. Concentrate on the reading assignments, the module lecture material, and any additional resources provided. This review should include a detailed examination of any illustrative problems and examples. After an assignment has been completed, a rapid re-reading of the related text and other materials is strongly recommended.
3. Put yourself on a definite schedule. Set aside a certain block of hours per day or week for this course and work in a place where distractions are minimal.
4. Try to submit one assignment each week or at least every two weeks. Delays in submitting assignments usually result in lagging interest and the inability to complete the course.
5. Review your module assignments after they have been graded, paying special attention to any instructor feedback provided. (We suggest that you wait for assignment feedback before you submit subsequent assignments.)
6. Regardless of how you complete your graded assignments, keep in mind that module completion should not be your sole preparation for your exams. As with any college course, you should study for your exams.

Reading Assignments

To do well in this course, it is essential that you read and study all the course materials that precede the module assignment. Do not begin the module assignment until you have done so.

In this course, we will be reading the classic texts of the tradition of political philosophy. Since this course is a historical survey which covers over 2000 years of thought, we will be reading a number of smaller selections from a wide number of writers. By doing so, we will be able to discover the narrative thread which runs throughout the entire history of political thought. Though we are reading texts which were written thousands of years and continents apart, reading through these texts shares a story wherein thinkers who never met one another are nonetheless having a conversation. By carefully reading these same texts and addressing the same questions, we are able to take part in the conversation as well.

Because this course is both a survey of philosophic texts and on-line based, it will be reading intensive. You will read an average of 90-100 pages per module. Specific reading assignments will be given in each module.

- Final Examination

Module Assignments

After completing the required reading for each module, you will be given a written assignment. These assignments will be in the form of short, essay-style questions, and there will typically be two to three questions per a module. For each assignment question you will be expected to write a double-spaced two- to three-page essay. Successful essays will not merely recite the information from the readings and lecture notes, but demonstrate an ability to explain the importance of this information and to synthesize this information with the material that has been covered in prior sections of the course. A simple recitation of facts will not be considered sufficient for a well-written essay.

Each assignment will be worth 10 points toward your final grade. While each individual assignment may not seem valuable toward your overall course grade, a passing grade will be difficult to obtain without satisfactory effort on the module assignments.

You will be permitted to use your books and any assigned readings (including the lecture notes) in aiding your responses. Since your assignments require you to discuss topics and ideas from so many sources, all assignments will be scanned for originality and plagiarism by Turnitin upon being submitted to Moodle. Because of this, any information that comes from your course materials should be appropriately cited. Citation style (MLA, APA, Chicago, etc.) is not important. I am only concerned that I can find where you got your information from, to confirm both its accuracy and context. Outside sources should be avoided whenever possible. Should you wish to introduce an outside source, please ensure that you clearly and accurately cite the information. Any sources cited incorrectly, or not cited at all, will be detected by TurnItIn and points will be deducted from your total assignment grade as a result.

Please prepare all modules assignments in MS Word.

You will only have one opportunity to submit module assignments, so be careful when you do so. Study the assigned readings, lecture notes, and any miscellany in each module before you begin to prepare the module assignments. When uploading assignments to Moodle, please use the following naming convention when saving your files:

CourseNumber_Version_Section_LastName_FirstName_ModuleNumber
(Example POLI2060_1.2_1_jones_sam_M01)

You should submit each module assignment as soon as it is completed. Some courses have restrictions that require that a grade be received before you can submit additional assignments. Specific information on assignment submission is included in the Module Instructions. Please be sure to follow these instructions.

You must have a grade posted in the Moodle grade book for the Module 14 Assignment in order to unlock access to the Final Exam. Please allow at least seven days for the final assignment grade to be posted in the gradebook.

Once you submit an assignment, you cannot revise it, so be sure to check your work. Your instructor will normally post a grade for your assignment within seven calendar days. Understand that occasional delays will occur, such as during holidays and semester breaks or if you submit several module assignments within the same week. You must have been enrolled in the course for at least three weeks, regardless of when the modules and other exams are completed.

Do not rely exclusively on your textbook or other resource material when preparing your assignments. If you do, you may not realize until exam time that the perfect response you prepared for an assignment was only possible because you referred to resource material without really learning or understanding the material and concepts. Therefore, you should attempt each assignment without referring to the resource material, and if you find it necessary to look up an answer, be sure you have actually learned the concept and material rather than merely reflecting it in the answer.

Academic Integrity

Students in Online Distance Learning (ODL) courses must comply with the LSU Code of Student Conduct. Suspected violations of the academic integrity policy may be referred to LSU Student Advocacy & Accountability (SAA), a unit of the Dean of Students. If found responsible of a violation, you will then be subject to whatever penalty SAA determines and will forfeit all course tuition and fees.

Plagiarism

Students are responsible for completing and submitting their own course work and preparing their own modules. All work submitted in the course modules must be the student's own work unless outside work is appropriate to the assignment; all outside material must be properly acknowledged. It is also unacceptable to copy directly from your textbook or to use published answer keys or the teacher's edition of a textbook.

Syllabus

Collaboration

Unauthorized collaboration constitutes plagiarism. Collaborative efforts that extend beyond the limits approved by the instructor are violations of the academic integrity policy. Students who study together are expected to prepare and write their own individual work for submission and grading.

For more information and links to the LSU Code of Student Conduct and the SAA website, go to the ODL Academic Integrity policy on our website.

Examinations and Grading Policy

Exams

There will be two exams given in this course: a mid-course exam following Module 07 and a cumulative final exam following Module 14.

These exams will be essay based. They will consist of four essay questions related to the material covered in the modules which precede them. The mid-course exam will cover material from Modules 01-07. The final exam will consist of two questions in relation to Modules 08-14 and two broad questions in relation to the larger themes of the course. Given the nature of the material, you are free (and in fact encouraged) to draw on material from throughout the course in all instances. Exam questions will be similar in style to those found in the module assignments. However, you will be expected to expand, explain, and draw connections between material to a greater degree when answering exam questions. For each question in the exam, you will be expected to write an essay of three to four pages. As with the module assignments, successful exam answers will not only recite the information from the readings and lecture notes, but demonstrate an ability to explain the importance of this information and to synthesize this information with the material that has been covered in prior modules of the course. A simple recitation of facts will not be considered sufficient for a well-written essay. Both the mid-term and the final exam will be closed-book.

You will have a maximum of three hours to complete the exam.

Grading Policy

Your course grade is computed as follows:

- Module assignments count 10 points each.
- Exams are 100 points each.

YOU MUST PASS THE FINAL EXAMINATION IN ORDER TO PASS THE COURSE.

If you pass the final exam, the course grade = total points earned out of 340.

The following grading scale applies:

97%–100%	= A+
93%–96%	= A
90%–92%	= A-
87%–89%	= B+
83%–86%	= B
80%–82%	= B-
77%–79%	= C+
73%–76%	= C
70%–72%	= C-
67%–69%	= D+
63%–66%	= D
60%–62%	= D-
0%–59%	= F

IMPORTANT: The final exam cannot be taken until you meet the following requirements. Under no circumstances may the final exam be taken earlier.

1. You must have been enrolled in the course for at least three weeks, regardless of when the modules and other exams are completed.
2. You must have a grade posted in the Moodle grade book for the Module 14 Assignment in order to unlock access to the Final Exam. Please allow at least 7 days for the final assignment grade to be posted in the gradebook.

To read the full exam policy and other policy statements, visit <http://www.outreach.lsu.edu/Distance-Learning/Online-Distance-Learning/Guidelines-Policies/Policies/Academic-Integrity>. Go to Continuing Education's homepage. Click on Extended Campus, select Online Distance Learning, and then click the link for Guidelines and Policies.

Taking Your Examinations

You are required to create a Louisiana State University ODL ProctorU account and to take your examinations through ProctorU, a remote proctoring service that allows you to take exams anywhere with internet access (some restrictions apply). Information on creating your ProctorU account can be found in the Getting Started module. You cannot use an account created through another university, so if you already have an account, you will still need to create an account associated with LSU Online Distance Learning (ODL).

The ProctorU website provides links you can use to find out how ProctorU works and to check your computer to see that it meets the technical requirements. In addition, to test using ProctorU, you need access to a web cam with a microphone (built-in or external), headphones or working speakers, and high speed internet to use this service. A complete list of technical requirements is available from the ProctorU website.

You should schedule your exams about a week before you are ready to take them in order to avoid any additional charges.

Transcript Information

After you have completed this course, your grade will be filed with the Office of the University Registrar. If a transcript is needed, it is your responsibility to make a request to the registrar. If you would like to order a transcript, visit the Office of the University Registrar Transcript Requests page to view your options (<http://sites01.lsu.edu/wp/registraroffice/student-services/transcript-request/>).
